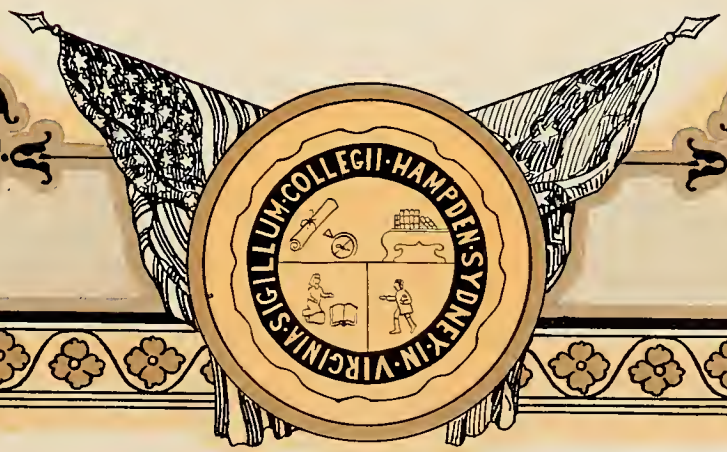
VOLUME XXXVII



Foreword

IN this volume of the Kaleidoscope we recall the period following the War of Sections—the Reconstruction Period. It was during that period that Hampden-Sydney underwent its greatest hardships. Deprived of its funds, and with its student body reduced to a mere handful, it carried on with an unbeatable spirit. It is this ability to persevere in the face of all obstacles which typifies the College. Even now, we are in the midst of another reconstruction period at Hampden-Sydney. Again the old spirit is aroused. It will, as formerly, over-ride the challenging circumstances, and keep the old College among the nation's most noted.

We hope that the book will often remind us of the small College, but the Great College, where we have spent four of the best years of our lives. May memories of our college friendships and efforts, our failures and successes, our sorrows and happiness be brought to us through the pages of this book.

Dedication

To

Dr. James E. Booker

As an expression of our appreciation for his untiring efforts to promote the interests of Hampden-Sydney; to a man who truly supports everything Hampden-Sydney stands for; who untiringly gives himself to the school, inspires her students, beautifies her campus, and follows her teams; to a man who is friendly to all the boys, and whose actions prove him to be still one of them—we dedicate this volume of the Fight On, Hampden-Sydney

Alma Mater, we will fight for thee,
On to victory.
Alma Mater, we would die for thee,
And the name of H.-S. C.

Fight on, fight on, Hampden-Sydney,
For the Garnet and the Gray.
Fight on, fight on, Hampden-Sydney,
We will win this game today.
Fight on, fight on, Hampden-Sydney,
For the fame of H.-S. C.
But win or lose, we'll always choose
Dear old Hampden-Sydney.

"Ed"

A real Christian gentleman whose life is reflected through his friends, his business dealings, and in his campus leadership is none other than our friend "Ed".

Getting off to a good start, "Ed" was soon a football manager's assistant and though away from the campus a year because of illness, his excellent work was not forgotten. He was elected manager of the 1930 eleven and has proved the ideal man for the position. "Ed's" interest in Christian work on the hill has awarded him such offices as the presidency of the Ministerial Association and a responsible position on the S. C. A. cabinet.

Since he is a friend to everybody and is willing to go out of his way to help a comrade, "Ed" will certainly rise to the pinnacle of the highest esteem the world can offer.

"Swede"

As a leader in almost every branch of student activities, Lloyd has proved himself an invaluable element to the school. In his four years of college life he has been one of the live wires on the campus, and the athletic field has ever seen him alert and giving his best for his Alma Mater. Lloyd says very little, thinks much, and works consistently. Modest and unassuming, he could boast, should he choose, of a remarkable career as a collegiate football player. He is competent and a hard worker, and has ably demonstrated his ability to accomplish things. In all, he is a rare combination of unusual ability and unique personality. Sincerity and unselfishness have marked his every act, and with his loss we know we have added a most worthy name to the alumni of Hampden-Sydney.

Elijah Baker, III

RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

K A, Σ B Φ

German Club; Student Assistant in Zoology.

"Smokie"

"Smokie" can make and keep friends at every turn because he is always looking on the bright side of life, smiling, and radiating good cheer. Four years he has gladly decorated Farmville and the interior of Shannon's with his tall, blond self. So dear have these occupations been to him that we are sure there will be a tinge of sorrow mingled with the joys of graduation. Yet there is a more serious Baker—one who can study when scholastic duties call. His many friends are sorry to lose him at the end of the year, but they have the satisfaction of knowing that here is one who shall bring credit to his Alma Mater.

Charles Alden Barrell

BUCKINGHAM, VIRGINIA

Σ T, T K A

Union-Philanthropic Literary Society, Reportorial Staff (2) Managing Editor (3), Associate Editor (4), "The Hampden-Sydney Tiger", Assistant Editor of the "Magazine" (3), Editor-In-Chief (4); Student Assistant in English (3, 4); Ministerial Association (1, 2); Trustees' Medal (2); Bagby Essay Prize (4); Philanthropic Debaters' Medal (2), Manager (3), Member (4), Debate Squad; Student Teacher at Worsham (4).

"Charlie"

From the very beginning "Charlie" has proven himself to be primarily a student. However he has not allowed studies to take all of his time, for he has become quite a power in activities. He is quite congenial, and a very interesting talker, for he seems to relish a good talk on anything from the classics to the "coming election". His welcome smile and cheery greeting has brightened many a gloomy day. He is a great favorite with both the boys and the professors. We can assure him of great success and many friends as he goes through life, for we feel sure that he will meet good luck on every turn.

Stewart Bell, Jr.

WINCHESTER, VIRGINIA

Σ T, T K A

Union-Philanthropic Literary Society; Class Historian; Ministerial Association; Reportorial Staff (1), Intercollegiate Editor (2), Managing Editor (3), "The Hampden-Sydney Tiger"; Debate Squad (2, 3); Debate Council (2, 3); Assistant Track Manager (2); Contributing Editor (3), "The Hampden-Sydney Magazine".

"Stewart"

Bell, better known as Stewart to most of the students and families on the hill, hails from Winchester. Stewart deserves credit for having won his degree in three years, and having kept on the honor rolls most of the time.

Lest Bell be thought to be a book-worm, let it be mentioned that his interests vary from descriptive astronomy to athletics. He loves and knows much about literature, art, drama, and even current affairs. He participates with interests in forensics and journalism. Although he does not seek ladies' company, he is sociable and is an entertaining conversationalist.

Stewart has a true sense of appreciation and is one of the most cultured men of his class. It has been a pleasure to know such a pleasant, industrious, and wholly optimistic gentleman.

Charles Lewis Bittinger

"Bitt"

"Bitt" is a man long to be remembered. His stable optimism, winning smile, good judgment, together with an ability to make impromptu, but perfectly fitting "wisecracks" aid in sustaining the impression he makes. He is a gentleman, a true friend, and a student with a purpose. He has chosen medicine as his profession, and it is evident he will succeed in this field. It has been a pleasure to have had him back with us after his first graduation, and subsequent experience as a teacher.

"Wink"

From the time that Winston entered the ivy-clad walls of his Alma Mater, he has applied himself along many lines of campus activities, and by his untiring work, his natural ability, and especially by his unconquerable spirit he has excelled in all. As a debater, as state president of Tau Kappa Alpha, and finally as the editor-in-chief of this volume of the KALEIDOSCOPE he has found no task too hard. Whatever he has touched he has improved. Friendly, generous, and just "harum-scarum" enough to be likeable; truly, he is a man's man.

German Club; Football Squad (2, 3, 4), Assistant Manager Baseball (3), Assistant Business Manager (3), Business Manager (4), "The Kaleidoscope", Basketball Squad (2), Monogram Club.

"Lucy"

George is best described as one of the fellows whom you just can't help liking. He is in every sense of the word a "pal," and he has shown that he is conscientious and serious at the proper time. For four years George worked down on "Death Valley" during the fall afternoons, a reserve for three years, but a brilliant varsity end his senior year, starring especially against Richmond. He is a real leader on the "hill" and one of the very best "all round" fellows. His latest honor is a Chi Beta Phi bid. Such fine qualities of sterling character as "Lucy" possesses will certainly put him through the hardest battles of life. The whole class can easily say that "Lucy" is among their best.

Edmund Bard Buckalew

HARRISBURG, PENNSYLVANIA

Δ, Χ Β Φ

Student Assistant in Biology; Student Assistant in Psychology.

"Buck"

"Buck" will always be remembered for his various types and makes of automobiles. He had a different car for each year. No one who has ever gone with "Buck" on one of his trips to Farmville Lake will be able to forget how utterly amusing this funny old "car-owner" was. It was always a great event of the spring to make the first trip to Farmville Lake with "Buck" in his car. In the sciences has "Buck" best distinguished himself, and he intends to study medicine after he leaves college. Of course, he shall make a name for himself in whatever life-work he chooses, and his many friends here are confident that success and prosperity shall long bless his paths.

Ernest Bowman Craddock

LYNCHBURG, VIRGINIA

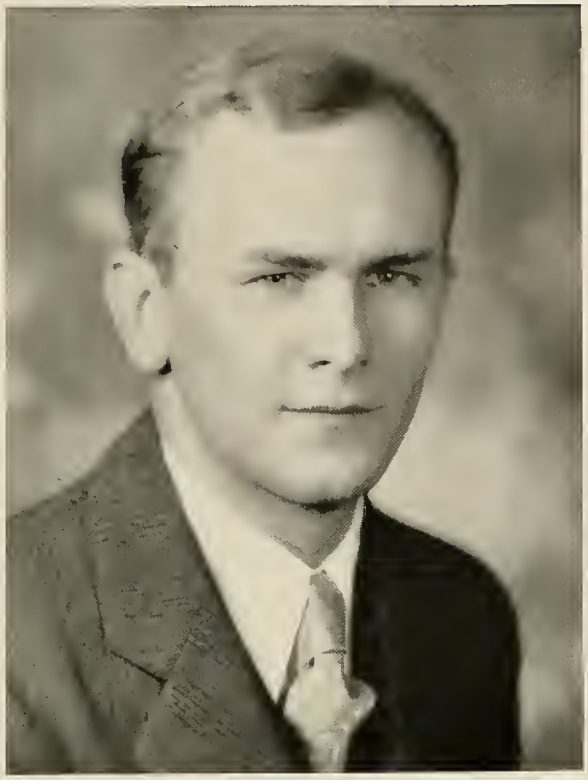
Assistant Manager Baseball (3); Pan-Hellenic Council (3); German Club.

"Bunny"

"Bunny", as he is known to the most of us, came to Hampden-Sydney at the age of fifteen. He has distinguished himself in a number of ways during his four years in college. His best subjects seem to be the sciences, and, hence, we expect great things from this fellow in the future. His mind is especially adapted to quick thinking and good understanding, for "Bunny" has been on the Dean's first honor roll several times, and, although he is not such a faithful student, he gets the marks. The friends "Bunny" leaves behind him can but wish the best of luck and happiness to one of Hampden-Sydney's most likeable boys.



Samuel Franklin Curling

NORFOLK, VIRGINIA

Student Assistant in Chemistry (4); Teacher of French in Worsham High School (4).

"Sam"

"Sam's" picture correctly interprets him as a man of serious and lofty purpose, of sterling character, and of congenial nature. He has also a most pleasing humorous side, for he has his own way of making wisecracks. His specialties are French and Chemistry, and he bids fair to do some splendid work upon these two subjects after he finishes at Hampden-Sydney. "Sam" is a thinker of the first order, and simply revels in "bull sessions" on politics, literature, philosophy, or love. Quiet and unassuming, he has won the esteem of his fellow students by his numerous fine qualities and, incidentally, he has won the precious heart of a damsel of S. T. C., but who knows?

Robert Cushing Derbyshire

LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA

"Bobbie"

Another example of the transfer who in his short stay with us has won his well-deserved way into the hearts of everyone with his cheery smile and humorous expressions in which he so clearly advises us that all is O.K. as far as he is concerned. "Bob" came to us from V. M. I. and his two years on the "hill" have been ones of hard work for him, but he has taken the situation well in hand and has become a leading scientist to say nothing of his superiority in other lines of curricula and extra-curricula activities.

"Hale-fellow-well-met," we are sorry to be separated from you, but we want you to know that Hampden-Sydney is proud of you, for your classmates honor and respect you, and everybody expects to hear more of your honors as an alumnus.

John Martin Hamlet, Jr.

PHOENIX, VIRGINIA

Φ Σ Ε, Χ Β Φ, Σ Τ

Philanthropic Literary Society; Reportorial Staff (3), Intercollegiate Editor (4), "The Hampden-Sydney Tiger".

"Hamlet"

John has come to us from the historic county of Charlotte. Hampden-Sydney has been fortunate in this contribution, for in John she has something of which to be justly proud. John is above all a hard worker. Not a few nights his lights have burned until two. But then that is only half the story. His social engagements have become quite numerous. He early realized that "all work and no play make Jack a dull boy". Consequently he seized all opportunities, and Farmville scarcely saw the week-end that John did not journey up High Street. A conversation with him will readily prove that he has the mind of a scientist, and it is in the sciences that he has done his best work. John wants to do advanced work in engineering and we are sure that success will follow him.

Harry Archie Hulvey

SWOOPE, VIRGINIA

O K N

Valley Club; Philanthropic Literary Society.

"Harry"

We would not have a complete picture of Hampden-Sydney without Harry's appearance. We find him present whenever support is needed in either major or minor events, ready to do his share for his Alma Mater. We need only to visit his place of abode in "Stagger Inn" to find that he can converse on 'most any subject or topic of interest. Neither is he lacking in his part in H.-S.-S. T. C. activities. Many have been the times when he graced the halls of the neighboring institution. We predict a successful future for him, and the Class of '31 unites in wishing him all the luck in the world.

"John"

Successful in whatever he attempts, congenial, full of real fun, able of mind and body, and a staunch supporter of college activities—that's John. Just a glance at his list of honors will bear out this analysis. Yes, he has certainly done things for Hampden-Sydney, for example, playing varsity football and baseball for four years and serving as captain of the latter sport. Also in John we find the rare combination of the athlete who never worries us about eligibility. John has worked hard while among us and deserves whatever he has received in the way of honors and popularity, both of which he has in abundance. Many are the true and lasting friends that John will leave on the campus, to say nothing of those in his class who will miss him as much as we.

"Andy"

If ever a man showed a true, upright, Christian spirit, with the ability to win and lose with a smile, that man is "Andy". To say that "Andy" has been a campus leader is not enough. He has been extremely versatile. As a track man and football player he has shown his skill and determination. As to the literary side of his college life, he has been on the staff of both the KALEIDOSCOPE and the Tiger. In addition to this, he has taken an active interest in S. C. A. work. If we are to judge the future by the past, "Andy" is headed for success in no small measure.

"Jeff"

"Habit is a cable; we weave a thread of it every day, and at last we cannot break it." Whenever you're in doubt see "Jeff", whose memory is never failing. On the gridiron, on the basketball court, on the diamond, in business, and pleasure he is right there with the goods and ready to deliver.

"Jeff" has a never ending contact with the upperclassmen and freshmen both in the club and as president of the Vigilance Committee. Nor are his contacts outside of school small, especially with the fair sex.

With such ambitions, initiative, and business ability he is sure to succeed, to contribute to mankind out of the training and glory he has gained at H.-S. C.

"Sam"

"Such popularity must be deserved"—and so it is with Sam. When we visualize this classmate we think of a dark-haired, nice-looking chap with an ever-present smile adorning a countenance that has always borne evidence of the best of dispositions. Sam hasn't cultivated his numerous friendships; they were his from the first and he has had the personality to make them everlasting. A glance at Sam's list of activities, one would think that his efforts were expended at his Alma Mater, but not so—there is not ample room on this page to attempt to relate his extensive amorous campaigns within the portals of S. T. C. His winsome way has caused many a fair damsel's heart to beat with alarming violence. Thus his loss by graduation will be felt by both institutions.

"Swampy"

"Swampy" is the jovial, smiling, well-met friend of the campus. It is seldom that melancholy's dark shadows fall on John. One always feels better after having talked, or shall we say joked with him? He's absolutely frank and above board to all; this quality and his good nature have made him what he is. All in all, he's a man that will be greatly missed on and about the campus.

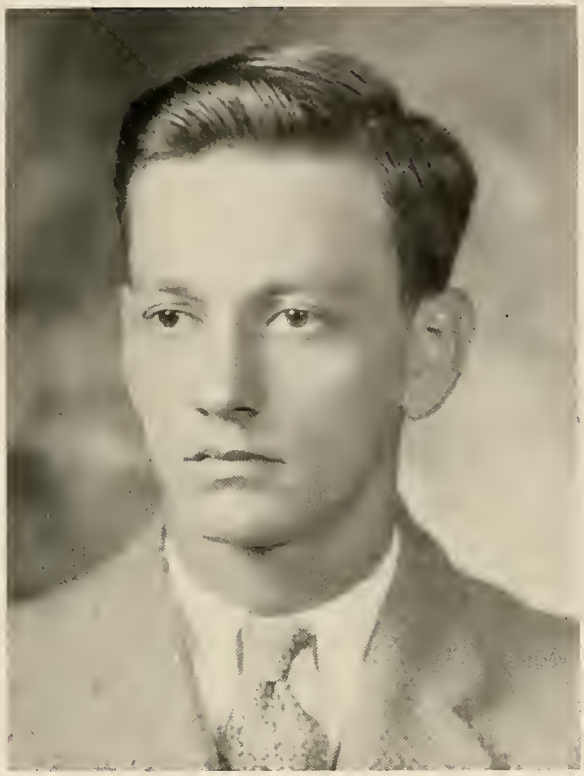
"Taylor"

"Taylor" comes to us from South Carolina. He is one of the few natural-born mathematicians of his class, getting this talent from his father. "Taylor" is also an athlete, being a three-sport man. Although small, he has proved to be a valuable asset to the backfield in football, and in the races in track. He is very congenial, playful, and full of fun, and above all an interesting conversationalist. He has a never-ending and ready source of wit, making it difficult for one to remain blue in his presence. We are sure that success along with many friends will accompany him in whatever occupation he enters.



Alpheus Wilson Potts

NORFOLK, VIRGINIA

X Φ

Jongleurs; Union-Philanthropic Literary Society.

"Al"

Some people's merit we take for granted; others grow in our estimation and friendship as we become better acquainted with their finest qualities. "Al" is distinctly classed with the latter group, for no one who has become acquainted with him can help but like, love and admire him. He certainly reflects the very finest of home training and a Christian character that puts him just a bit higher in the estimate of his pals than the usual easy-going and shiftless boys.

Judging from the life he has lived among us for the past four years we know that a great work lies ahead of him in the ministry, and we know he will be successful because of the complete consecration he has. Our only regret is that Hampden-Sydney does not have more men like "Al" who give their lives to the spreading of the Gospel.

C. A. Cabinet, Devotional Chairman (3), Vice-President (4).

"Lute"

When Charleston sent "Lute" to Hampden-Sydney it probably little realized that it was sending a man who would bring fame both to itself and also to the institution. Neither must we overlook what honor he has brought upon himself. He appears on the diamond as a natural player, on the basketball court as a fighter, in activities as unsurpassed, in the classroom as a sincere student, and on or off the campus as a true Christian gentleman. To know "Lute" is to love him, to associate with him means a wholesome influence on one's own life. Surely, if we can be certain of anything, we can say that he has a marvelous future because he has been singled out as a leader wherever he goes.

Brought up in a Hampden-Sydney atmosphere of staunch Hampden-Sydney lineage and finally a real credit to Alma Mater himself, Macon has proved himself a worthy credit to the name friend and classmate. He is a student of no mean ability and his power with the English language has won him a place among the "Literati". He has been most instrumental in promoting the new Literary Society with his interest and work and has taken an active part in presenting Hampden-Sydney's side in intercollegiate debates, besides entering into various other activities and supporting them loyally.

We know Macon will be back among us on the hill often, but his classmates who will be separated from him hope that he will continue to make friends as easily as he has among them and that the class will continue to be honored by the presence of a noted author in its ranks.

"Wellie"

"Wellie" has quietly and unpretentiously won his way to a place of high esteem among his fellow students. Quiet to the point that it hurts sometimes, he has seemed very reserved to some who do not know him very well, but to those who were fortunate enough to be associated with him more closely this trait is a rare virtue. Just a glance at his list of honorary society memberships and a knowledge of the numerous nick-names by which he is addressed is sufficient evidence of his popularity. "Wellie" added the coveted "H" to his list of honors in his senior year after contributing his share of yardage gained as fullback. Numerous honors have come to "Wellie" unsought, but modestly accepted and appreciated—and if character, integrity and industry are the essentials of success we will never worry about "Wellie's" future.

"Charlie"

One can easily see from the above list of honors what "Charlie" has meant to and done for his Alma Mater. "Charlie" hails from the capital city and has brought with him every quality of a gentleman, student, and friend. Making his scholastic reputation by passing two special examinations when he entered school, he has had a very easy job in keeping up his average. During his seemingly short sojourn on the campus, "Charlie" has held prominent positions, which he has filled with ability. We all know he is capable of attaining success because he certainly knows his shillings as evidenced by his business integrity.

"John R."

A broad grin, cultured smile, and splendid personality well define "John R." as the big, tall "ladies' man" we are so well acquainted with. His social gifts, his clever wit, and his quick mind make him a most pleasing companion and classmate.

"John R." is a brilliant conversationalist and seems to have been born with the ability to manage. This is well evidenced in his outstanding work on the German Club and Magazine.

As an athlete he has made a name for himself by service upon the gridiron. His "pet" subjects seem to be the sciences, and he is naturally well versed therein. Wherever a congenial, "wise-cracking" group is gathered you may nearly always distinguish the tall boy with the smile from Saluda. Success would not do itself justice if it did not abundantly reward this merry Tiger.

He is one of our most versatile Tigers, his varied interests including science, literature, art, and music. Robert, aside from being a good student, has done what so many college men fail to do—cultivate an aesthetic appreciation. His mental powers and fine traits of character will give him a good start on the highway of life. Though Robert is of a quiet and retiring disposition his personality has a distinct charm for those who know him well. He leaves his Alma Mater with a circle of warm friends.

"John W."

A cackling, jolly old boy with an indelible grin—that's "John W." His schoolmates will never forget his hearty laugh, his innocent pranks. At the Students Club he has become an institution. He it is that for the last two or three years has ruled uncontested in the small dining room, the club's annex, where dine the elite, as they term themselves. He has been most proficient in depriving the late-rising society gents of cereal and in directing the merry chatter of the diners.

In his spare time John drives around in his old Dodge, model 1915, often directing its course towards Washington, where resides "the wife". On the campus he has been prominent in religious work. He intends to devote his life to the service of the Master.

"Bill"

Industry is "Bill's" most characteristic trait. Throughout his four years at Hampden-Sydney, Sloan has been active in dramatics, literary work, tennis and basketball, being captain of both of the latter. His list of honors will show that these are not all of his accomplishments, and a familiar list in dean's office will attest his scholastic ability.

But "Bill's" activities do not end on the campus. Even far-away S. T. C. has seen much of him, and (it is rumored) like him well. We predict for him unbounded success and many friends—such a cheery disposition as his cannot be without companions.

"Pinkie"

Who ever enjoyed life any better than "Pinkie"? Here's his prescription—always looking to the bright side of life, a good wholesome crack for every occasion supported by a melodious voice and a ripping banjo burning 'em down. His sterling character is exhibited in the precaution he exercises in choosing his friends. Once you have secured his friendship it becomes as lasting as the rock of Gibraltar. And then for "Pinkie" as a social hound—his way with the women is indeed appalling. We might attribute his success in this line to his seeming cool indifference with a timely follow-through that never once failed to sweep the fair damsals off their feet—WHAT A MAN!

But seriously speaking, there are great things in store for "Pinkie" if his four years at H.-S. can be used as a criterion of his ability. He exercises a style all of his own in accomplishing whatever faces him.

A man of set purpose and of determined character, Holmes has been in all the better and higher things of our college life. True, energetic, and persevering, he has met and overcome obstacle after obstacle until today he is in sight of the goal of his ambition—a business leader. Holmes' good business-like manner, good judgment, and level-headedness have been great influences on the campus. He has contributed much as a tennis player. He is a man who can be depended upon at any time to do what he says he will do. He is truly a Hampden-Sydney man.

"Ed"

"Ed" is one of Hampden-Sydney's "old faithfuls". Though he has not directed his energies toward an extensive field of activities, he has proven himself efficient in whatever he has undertaken and has always turned in a creditable performance. More valuable than his service as manager of freshmen football, perhaps, is his quality of congenial friendship that excludes no one and can only make for happiness. For those who know him Hampden-Sydney will not be the same without him.

"Herb"

We doubt if "Herb's" unusual ability as a business manager was fully realized and utilized by the various student activities to the extent that it would have been to their advantage to do so, for we know that wherever "Herb" applied his keen mathematical mind and thorough knowledge of business methods, things prospered.

Loyal friendship and a keen sense of humor characterize "Herb" as one friend who is a real "hum-dinger". Too much cannot be said of "Herb" and his other abilities, for he took active parts in athletic and literary activities of his Alma Mater with his usual sense of duty.

Hampden-Sydney can but wish "Herb" bon voyage as he leaves these dear old ivy-clad walls and steps out into life, for everything that "Herb" will do shall surely bring honor to his college.

"Wilder" is potentially a thinker, although accused of being a dreamer. He's of the "stuff" genii are derived from. He likes books, poetry, and the company of dilettante in the arts and literature. He also has a dramatic bent, being attracted by the stage. Do not think that "Wilder" isn't practical—as business manager of The Tiger he enjoyed great success, as well as in his other activities. He's a true friend to those he knows and should have an enjoyable life.

"Marshall"

Four years ago there came to us a small light-haired boy, not appearing unusual, but destined to be quite so. Since his first day here Marshall has shown himself to be primarily and preeminently a student. He has put work before pleasure and consequently his name has seldom been off the Dean's "First Honor" list. He is also a literary man whose ability is not to be scoffed at. His contributions to the Magazine have been frequent as well as good. He also bids fair to make an actor, for in the plays in which he has participated he has been a leading and outstanding character. He expects to do advanced work in his favorite study, Latin. As a teacher of his favorite subject we can wish him nothing but success. It is also rumored that he has an interest in a certain college in Lynchburg. All we know is that he is seldom seen with one of the fairer sex in this vicinity.

"Thornton"

As Thornton leaves us we lose one of our most steady Tigers. His seriousness of purpose is directly shown by the fact that he obtained his degree in three years at H.-S. This is one thing of which few Tigers can boast and Thornton deserves credit for this demonstration of his ability and ambition. While on the hill this Tiger did not take an active part in many college activities, but where he was affiliated he did his part in making the project a success. So we have in Thornton a steady and ambitious young man with a pleasing personality to whom we wish the greatest success in his profession as he steps upon the threshold of life.

A Race of Reconstruction Days

Charles A. Bernier

"Coach" is one of Hampden-Sydney's assets of which we are all proud. He is an alumnus of the school, and makes her interest his interest. He is outstandingly a gentleman sportsman. His entire philosophy of athletic conflict is summarized in these words of advice he often gives his teams, when they are meeting supposedly superior foes: "Give the best you have and you will have nothing to regret." A coach of this type makes it possible for Hampden-Sydney to hold the high position in athletics that she does.

H. E. Smith

"Red" hasn't been with us very long, but long enough to make many friends. As assistant coach in football and as track coach he has shown the boys many tricks of the game. His quiet, concerned manner makes him an ideal coach. Aside from aiding in coaching he is in charge of Physical Education and makes his courses most interesting.

FOOTBALL

Football, 1930

The 1930 season was a great success. Everyone knows that all the games weren't won, and that the team sometimes didn't function as well as it might have; but tenacity and perseverance which resulted in games like the Richmond and William and Mary conflicts make the season successful. The team was light and inexperienced, lacking in almost every qualification but fight; there was an overabundance of this most needed quality. Credit is due to Coaches Bernier and Smith for their encouraging efforts, and to Captain Arehart for his leadership. The men who were most outstanding this season are: Powell, the fighting center from Richmond, captain for next season; Hogan, Garden, Toone, Reed, Arehart, Lawson, Bradford, Nottingham, and Bowers. The entire team deserves credit.

The season opened with a closely contested game against the Washington and Lee Generals. The team displayed its fight all the way and only through flukes did the Generals score. The final count was 15 to 0 in favor of our opponents.

Showing a reverse of form the next week end, the team overcame a Bridgewater aggregation to the count of 25 to 7. The play was hard and marked by consecutive Tiger gains.

stitution stopped the invasion from the South to the tune of 47 to 7. A pass from Toone to Lawson scored us, and Franklin kicked the extra point. Powell, Garden and Hogan played well.

Home-coming day wasn't so happy. The boys fought, but weren't able to outfight a rested team from Ashland. The final count was 6 to 0 in favor of Randolph-Macon.

The Roanoke game was the first game ever to be played under arclights. The Tigers gave the foe a wonderful fight—a fumble after the Tigers had crossed the goal line cost us the game. The final count was 15 to 7. Reed, Garden, and Hogan were outstanding.

November 8th saw an enraged Tiger team devour the Hornets from Lynchburg by the score of 33 to 0. The team worked smoothly, the score could have been much larger, but the entire squad played.

The Richmond game was the best of the season—no man was outstanding—the team was outstanding. Richmond never advanced the ball beyond the Tigers 30-yard line, a new record. The Tigers threatened to score near the close of each half. The game ended a tie, but a moral victory for Hampden-Sydney, which was

On November 27th a tired group of Tigers met the Blue-clad Warriors from St. Johns. Handicapped by cold, the Tigers failed to put up a characteristic show except in the third quarter. The final count was 39 to 0 in favor of St. Johns.

In the cold month of December the Tigers closed the season by fighting a losing battle to William and Mary. They lost to the team that tied Harvard, 13 to 0. The season opened and closed with a display of fight. Fight typifies our amateur athletics.

BRADFORD

Freshman Football

The freshman football team, better known as the "Winnless Wonders", didn't have such a successful year if we look at the score sheet, but one knowing the conditions they were under cannot help but believe that they did have some good material which will be in the running for the varsity next year.

Fork Union, Petersburg High, Saint Christophers, Hargrave, Blackstone, and Lynchburg High were teams that were encountered. Glancing over this list one can see what a tough lot they were. To no team did the "Freshies" lose by over three touchdowns and they tied Blackstone. So we see, while the season could not be called a great success, it could have been worse, much worse.

In looking over the names, we can pick a few of the bright lights of the year. In the backfield were Dingwall, Wick, Sines, Crawford and Spotswood. On the line, McLaughlin, Wall, Peach, Finley, Williams, Goodman, McCurdy, Pauley, Hancock, Thompson, and Sibold were outstanding. Much is expected of these boys on Death Valley next year, and it is certain they will add to the laurels of old Hampden-Sydney.

Contending passions jostle and displace
And tilt and tourney mostly in the face.
Coles—Man and Microcosm

BASKETBALL

Basketball, 1931

This season's record is one of the best ever presented by a Tiger team. The term "record" is not entirely relative to scores, but to the same fight that has characterized all previous Tiger teams. They are never out until the final whistle. It would be impossible to name any outstanding players, but Captain Sloan and Handy Moore played brilliantly.

Prospects for a good season were evident since six letter men were back. In the opening game with Richmond Medical College the Tigers won by a score of 32 to 21. The next game with the University of Virginia was lost by a score of 23 to 14. The team had not yet hit its stride.

Roanoke met defeat at the hands of Captain Sloan's netmen to the count of 32 to 22.

In a game immediately after examination, the Tigers, playing below par, were beaten by William and Mary, 31 to 21.

The Richmond game was one of the best of the season. In a closely contested encounter the Tigers showed their teeth and won 31 to 25.

Freshman Basketball

This year's Freshman basketball team has shown remarkable promise as valuable varsity material for next year. The work of Moore, Sines, Lacy, Crawford, Hix, Sibold, and Bowyer is to be commended. Hancock and acting-captain Dingwall have also done exceedingly well this season.

The Freshmen started their season with a game against the Medical College second team, winning, 27 to 18.

The next game saw the Freshmen playing decidedly off form, and consequently losing to Fork Union, 29 to 14.

In a preliminary to the Hampden-Sydney-William and Mary game, the Freshmen swamped Worsham, 29 to 5.

Christ's Church School was then taken into camp in a preliminary before the Richmond game; the final score was 32 to 12.

BASEBALL SQUAD, 1930

Tiger Bred

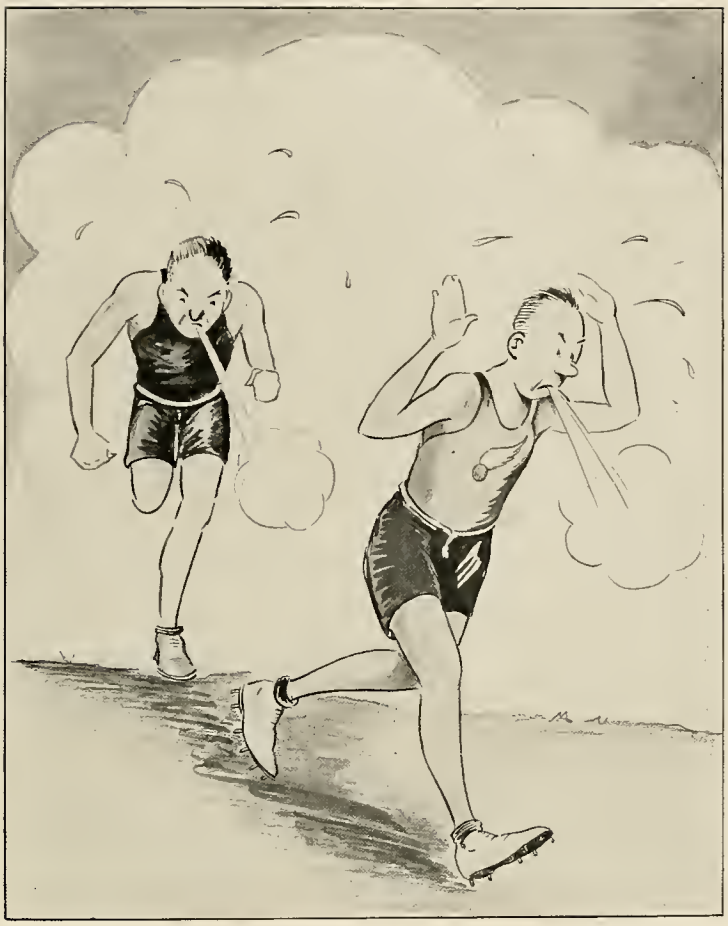
FREEMAN H. HART

SOME of the best football men did not return to college in September. There was gloom on the hill for football fans. A team must be built from material that was light—the wise ones among us were inclined to say—from material that had been and would continue to be largely substitute. But we had forgotten that it was Tiger-bred material.

Came Washington and Lee and did those little Tigers show their claws? The Generals went back to their headquarters convinced that a skirmish had developed into a drawn battle. Tiger rooters came back to the hill exuberant and convinced that we had a great little team. A squad of unusually fine fellows had shown that they could play football when the chance came—not Granges, nor Friedmans, nor Savoldis, but real amateur sportsmen who inspired whole-hearted rooting.

The season rocked on. They lost, they won. They were nearly always outweighed but seldom outplayed. A confident Richmond team failed to get within their twenty-yard line. Even before a good St. Johns team, when the Tigers had their worst day, they inspired a bright-faced little Tiger rooter—still two years away from the Hampden-Sydney campus which he had never seen—to root on unswervingly till the last whistle blew.

But they saved the best for the last. Came the strongest William and Mary team in years and the great little Tiger team had battled them to a standstill except for some passing breaks in the first part of the game. It was first down, William and Mary, and about three yards and a half to go for a touchdown. It was second down, William and Mary, and two to go. It was third down, William and Mary, and three to go. It was fourth down, William and Mary, and four to go. It was Hampden-Sydney, first down on their own four-yard line. Tommy Toone—we had said two years before that he had plenty of grit, but that he would never be big enough to make the varsity—was back ready to punt. Could that little Tiger team hold again long enough to give Tommy a chance? It could! The kick was off—thirty—forty—fifty—sixty—seventy yards down the field! It was William and Mary's ball on their own forty-yard line. The Tiger rooters forgot that it was raining! They liked to root for that team. It was amateur in the finest sense of the word. It was Tiger bred.



Oh, Life! Thou art a galling load,
A long, a rough, a weary road
For wretches such as I.

Burns—Despondency

To the Ladies

To those who mean the world to us,
  Whose presence is a blessing, and
Without whom we're superfluous!
  To beauty, grace, and charm—we stand
    To the Ladies!

To them with honor will we pledge
  What treasures we may chance to gain,
And think it highest privilege
  To dedicate what we attain
    To the Ladies!

The softest beauty—wildest thrill—
  That e'er will be our lot to know
Is theirs to give. We always will
  The finest joys of living owe
    To the Ladies!

For theirs is beauty, theirs is youth,
  Theirs the Springtime and the May
And all our hearts, our lives, in truth
  We'll give for ever and a day
    To the Ladies!

FRATERNITIES

Hampden-Sydney's Rating in "Who's Who"

By Robert K. Brock

SUCCESS and achievement are necessarily relative terms. While some consider this or that person has accomplished something worthwhile and deserves special recognition, others will take the contrary view. It is true that certain men are so outstanding that a position of distinction is accorded them by common consent. The purpose of "Who's Who in America" is to list men and women who have accomplished something more than what the average man achieves and in fact are regarded as deserving of special recognition. The fact that a man is so listed, however, is not conclusive of his merit, nor does the fact that another man's name is not so listed prove that he is not worthy of such recognition. Nevertheless, the selection of these names is made with care and discrimination and as a rule only those who have attained a position of considerable merit find their way into this volume. Certainly there are few men who do not covet the distinction of being found eligible to have their names appear in "Who's Who in America."

Therefore, when it is found on a percentage basis that Hampden-Sydney has more graduates listed in "Who's Who" than any other college or university in the United States, it is a distinction of which the college may feel justly proud. Educational institutions are accustomed to have the public appraise them by various standards, some by the prowess of their athletic teams, others by their physical plants; still others by their athletic fields and gymnasiums; some by the wide range of subjects which are taught. No final and complete test can be found, but it would seem that something to measure or gauge the quality of the output of an educational institution would be as good a method as any. It therefore occurred to Professors Kunkel and Prentiss, of Lafayette University, to find out how the graduates of the colleges and universities of the United States ranked in "Who's Who." They proceeded carefully and deliberately without having any definite idea as to where their research would land them, and they were no doubt much surprised to find that Hampden-Sydney outdistanced all the colleges and universities of the country. This, of course, on a percentage basis, because with an average annual attendance of slightly over one hundred, the actual number of Hampden-Sydney graduates in "Who's Who" could not be great—fifty-six altogether. A percentage basis, which would appear to be the proper one, placed Hampden-Sydney first with 7.45 per cent. Amherst second and Harvard third. Some have claimed that the reason Hampden-Sydney leads is because of the large number of ministers and educators among its graduates, and that teachers and preachers seem to find their way into this publication more readily than others. As a matter of fact, only one-fifth of the graduates of Hampden-Sydney have gone into the ministry and about an equal number into the teaching profession; and there are other institutions furnishing teachers and preachers in as large numbers as does Hampden-Sydney. The truth is, the greater number of its graduates appearing in "Who's Who" are neither teachers nor preachers, more than one-half being made up of lawyers, doctors, authors, journalists, executives, engineers and business men. It must be remembered that Hampden-Sydney is competing with all the educational institutions of the country and to rank first is not to be discounted. It is felt that any other college or university would not object to having this position which Hampden-Sydney holds. It has been asked why this high rating. The answer is thorough instruction, by capable teachers, the stressing of the classics and the sciences, a restricted elective system and a selected student personnel.

Attention

THE STAFF of the 1931 Kaleidoscope takes this opportunity to state to its readers that this volume was made possible largely through the co-operation of our advertisers. The least we can do in appreciation of this indispensable support is to patronize them. They support us—certainly we will support them.

In reading the following pages note carefully who our friends in Business are and always favor them when buying.

HAMPDEN-SYDNEY COLLEGE

This institution opened its doors on January 1, 1776, and is the only college in America from which the students entered the Revolutionary War in a body.

Among its charter trustees were James Madison, afterwards President of the United States, and Patrick Henry.

It stands high among the list of "small colleges" which have sent from their halls a remarkable number of leaders and successful men in every profession, in every walk of life. It has always adhered to the standards of high scholarship and gentlemanly conduct. It is definitely Christian in its beliefs and outlook. In its courses of study it meets modern requirements.

The Degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science are Given

Fraternities

(Confidentially)

Fraternities are supposed to be composed of men. Female fraternities are called Sororities. Men can't belong to sororities, but some act like it.

Fraternities are called "Frats". "Frats" is a Greek word meaning "we'll all drink together". Sorority is a Greek word meaning "hold hard".

Members of fraternities are called frat men—and also other things it wouldn't do to print.

Fraternities have meetings. Nobody knows what goes on in these meetings because they are secret. Mostly they have debates to decide whether to pay dues or not.

Fraternities have rituals and high—I mean blackballs. Rituals to make the members think they belong to something.

A frat man is called a "Greek" and other things. A man who does not belong is a "barbarian". Many Barbarians want to be Greeks and other things.

Fraternities have initiations closely resembling the Spanish Inquisition. Nobody dislikes these but the Goats. Goats are mainly used to get money from.

The chief aim of both Greeks and Barbarians is to extract money from father.

When fraternities meet together they are called Pan-Hels. "Pan" means all.

Pan-Hels have rules, but nobody knows it.

Everybody says frats have cliques. Frats say they haven't. Cliques are generally used around election time. The two biggest frats are the A. K.'s and H. A.'s.

To Them on the Farm

Dear Mama and Pop:

You orter be here. This place has got more bildens than the fare grounds. The biggest one is called Cushins, but I ain't seen none. It's got passiges, too. I hope I dont get lossed in none of them. Cushins is so big its got four front doors.

They aint got no bath tubs here. I reckin Ile haf to come home ever month er so. They have got one place where you can sprinkle watter on yerself. They call that the Jim Nashum. I guess its named after some guy what died here.

Ma, I spect youd better sell that cow of mine. This here edewcation is shore goin to cost money. Theys a lotta things you gotta buy aint in the Almanack they sent me. Theres some fellers here what sells used books. These here books cost moren the new ones, but I reckin thats all right cause these fellers said as how theys better when theys been used. The Treshrer says as how I gotta pay everthing jest as soon as possible an if I dident ime likely to die early. Say, Ma, I doesn't want to dye eraly, do I?

They got a store here where you get yore mail out of a little cage. I ain't been over to work mine yet. Theres a feller named Boss what works in this store. I was going to bye a pencil from him, but he sold me five. He told me to leave him a little something to member him by. I give him one of them fotygrams.

Theres another guy here what they all call Prexal. He dont look like no Prexal to me. Yestiddy morning in chapil—thats where you go if you aint got cuts, I aint been hurt yet, this feller says as how we ortent to have no inferior complexion. I dont reckin he was talking to me. Theres a lotta other fellers here what they call funny names. I guess Ile see them some time.

Ma, I wisht youd send me another pare of socks, mines about wore out.

Yore loving son,

OSCAR.
